Thomas Eller Biography

Tom Eller was born on January 16, 1932 and grew up in Twisp, Washington with his younger brother, Bob. Tom joined the military and served during the end of the Korean War. Upon returning to Washington State, he settled in Omak and found work. After several years at the local lumber mill, Tom joined the City of Omak in June 1982 as the Airport Manager of Omak Municipal Airport. He was an active WAMA member and served on WAMA's Board of Directors 1990-1993.

Tom's vision and impact on Washington state aviation greatly exceeded those few simple lines on his professional resume. As manager of the Omak Airport, Tom devoted energy and enthusiasm to both his and other small airports. He did so via his active membership in WAMA, including his three years as a board member.

On March 2, 1993 Bill Conley, WAMA President, presented a letter to Tom outlining the scholarship in his name "as a recognition of your many years of dedication and contribution to our industry. Much to your credit, the Omak Municipal Airport is an outstanding example of the many non-commercial airports that so well serve business and commerce in the non-metropolitan regions of Washington state through general aviation."

Accompanying Bill Conley and on hand for the presentation were Tom's wife Linda, his parents Howard and Mildred Eller, his brother and sister-in-law Bob and Jan Eller, Arnie Clark – Wenatchee Airport Manager, Mac McIver – WSDOT Aeronautics Program Manager, Omak Mayor Walt Smith, councilmen Waldo Gover and Clinton Watts, city attorney Mick Howe, and Reinhart Jung of Reid Middleton, an engineering firm.

Tom passed away after a brief illness on March 26, 1993. He is interred at Okanogan Valley Memorial Gardens in Omak, WA.

With his family in attendance, the first $1,000 scholarship in Tom Eller's name was presented at WAMA's Fall 1993 Conference in Leavenworth, in Bill Conley's words, "...as a symbol of his love of aviation and our Association."
